T. B. CLINIC TO BE HELD JUNE 18TH

Arrangements are being made by Dr. R. W. Garrett, City Health Officer, in co-operation with the State Board of Health, Bureau of Tuberculosis Education, for a five day tuberculosis clinic to be held in Danville the week of June 18th for both white and colored. Effort will be made through publicity and educational talks to intensify tuberculosis work now being done, with the idea of establishing a permanent dispensary service.

The State Board of Health specialist will make the chest examinations assisted by local doctors, and Miss Anna T. Pope, field nurse from the Bureau of Tuberculosis Education, will be in the city for two months to help with the working up of the clinic and the follow-up. Miss Pope arrives for duty Monday, May 21st and her time will be given to home visiting in co-operation with the physician, Irving L. Spear, executive secretary of the Virginia Tuberculosis Association, will help with the organization and educational propaganda.

A representative from the Bureau of Tuberculosis Education made a preliminary visit this week and will be in the city for two months to help with the working up of the clinic and the follow-up.

Place and date will be announced later.

TO HOLD PRAYER SERVICE

Mid-week prayer services will be held this evening at 8 o'clock. The services will be conducted by Rev. E. C. Owen, and a large gathering is expected. The subject that will be discussed is "God in Nature." It is hoped all members of the church will show their interest by their presence.

Revival of Wall St. Mystery Sequel To Communist Inquiry

By EDWARD THIERRY
(Special to The Bee)

NEW YORK, May 16.—Death specters of 39 men and women who lost their lives in the famous Wall Street bomb explosion of 1920 have risen again.

A young man named Noah Lerner is now believed by police to hold the key to the three-year mystery. Disillusioned colonists of the Kuzbass communist movement in Siberia, who Lerner boasted over there that he knew the secret of the explosion that rocked New York's financial district and created an international sensation.

Lerner—engineer, electrician, mechanic and chemist of sorts—is the latest of many who have been arrested in the long, unfruitful investigation of the famous blast. Here is the story of the tragedy and the chase:

CHAPTER I

A wagon drawn by one horse paused at the corner of Wall and Broad streets, next to the granite and marble banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co., and across the narrow thoroughfare from the United States sub-treasury and the assay office, one corner and the Stock Exchange on the other it was noon of Sept. 16, 1920.

Suddenly came the roar and blinding flash of an explosion. Thousands were pouring from skyscrapers of the financial district and the avenues were choked with people. Thirty-nine of them were killed and more than 100 injured by flying fragments. Millions of dollars damage was done.

CHAPTER II

The Wall Street blast shocked the country. A theory that a powder wagon on the way to a construction job had exploded accidentally was swept away instantly by a wave of indignation and protest. A timed bomb, investigators said.

Owner and driver of the death cart were never found, though expert farmers and wagon makers were called in to identify horse and vehicle.

William J. Flynn, then chief of the bureau of investigation of the Department of Justice, said from the first it was a plot. Most investigators agreed. A grand jury returned a similar opinion.

CHAPTER III

Thousands of clues were advanced. Wholesale arrests were made; all were released.

Two men were deported in 1921; another in 1922. Investigators arrested Robert Elia, Brooklyn Italian, and failing to connect him with the Wall Street blast deported him in August, 1921. Three months later Ludovic Camilla, of Paterson, N. J., was suspected and was deported.

William J. Burns, famous detective who succeeded Flynn, announced in December, 1921, that the mystery had been solved by the arrest in Warsaw of Wolfe Lindenfeld, alias William Linde.

CHAPTER IV

Two women and four men, named as conspirators, were said to be in

MOTHERS' TEA AT Y. M. C. A. TUESDAY

The "Mothers' Tea" given by the Junior boys of the Danville Young Men's Association Tuesday afternoon was a very successful affair.

A large number of mothers accepted the invitation to be the guests of their sons on this occasion and were delighted with the program which the boys rendered.

The mothers and their youthful hosts first assembled in the auditorium. Here Johnnie Ragland acted as presiding officer and opened the meeting by having all rise and join in singing "America" after which General Secretary E. G. Corwine was called to lead in the opening prayer.

The chairman then made a short address of welcome to the mothers, after which the following interesting talks were made:

"Our Camping Program"—George S. Hughes
"The Pleasure of Hiking"—Hinton Gayn.

"Our Bible Classes"—Rallou Bagby. At this point in the program Mrs. C. B. Tarr made a few well chosen remarks on behalf of the mothers, assuring the boys of their mothers' appreciation of their hospitality and pledging to the Y. M. C. A. the hearty co-operation of the mothers in every phase of its work.

Light refreshments were then served by the boys and after all had partaken of same the boys led their mothers to seats in the gymnasium gallery. Leaving their purses here the boys went down to the main floor of the gymnasium where Physical Director Geo. N. Savage directed them in a demonstration of the gym class work.

On the boys during their regular hours at the Y. M. C. A. At the close of the program the mothers expressed themselves as being greatly pleased with the entertainment their boys had given them and declared that they were ready to co-operate again whenever the opportunity might be offered them.

Russia, where Linde had been sent to track them. His own arrest resulted in the naming of New York blacksmith as the bomb plotter.

Three confessions were reported and Burns announced that Linde's evidence linked the Wall Street blast with the Moscow Third International, also.

Linde was brought back from Warsaw by a detective in December, 1922, and immediately went on a hunger strike. The same month he was deported, leaving the explosion as much a mystery as ever.

CHAPTER V

Meanwhile investigation, piecing together together minute scraps of evidence, constructed a composite photograph of the man supposed to have driven the death cart.

Many "confessions" were made. A person one month, 1923, was made by a man in jail in Los Angeles. Chief Burns discredited his story, as he did all others.

Burns, however, made this statement April 9 last: "The name of every person involved in the Wall Street plot is known to my department and all are in Russia."

CHAPTER VI

Noah Lerner, 2 years old, born in Russia but a naturalized American and a resident of this country for eight years, returned from a visit to Russia on the steamer Homeric May 3 last.

Police immediately began looking for him. They acted on information furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Doyle, recently returned from Russia where they had gone with hundreds of other Americans to join the Kuzbass Colony, established in Siberia to work under a communist grant given "Big Bill" Haywood.

The Doyles, who were also responsible for the government investigation into the activities of the New York offices of the Kuzbass Colony.

POLICE TO TAKE OUT INSURANCE

A proposal for the members of the police force to take out health and accident insurance, the chief matter discussed by the Police-Sheriff club at its meeting yesterday afternoon in the city court room.

Policeman Towell brought the question up, and after several minutes had talked on the subject Sergeant Edwards, chairman, named a committee to investigate the best kind of insurance to be taken out and to report to the club at its next meeting which was set for May 22.

The members of the force for the police force to take out health and accident insurance, the chief matter discussed by the Police-Sheriff club at its meeting yesterday afternoon in the city court room.

Before the club adjourned Chief Bell, Sergeant Edwards and Sergeant Haraway took occasion to congratulate the members of the force for the excellent way they conducted themselves during circus day.

NEED EIGHTEEN MORE FOR CAMP

Pittsylvania county still has eighteen vacancies to be filled in the Citizens Military Training camp which is to be held at Camp Meade, Md., from July 26 to July 29, according to information given out yesterday by the headquarters of the 50th Division, Seventh and Franklin streets, Richmond, Va.

Any young man of Danville or Pittsylvania county, between the ages of 17 and 24 years is eligible. Expenses for the camp will be paid by the government. All applications should be submitted to Headquarters before June 1.

Chaplains and stewards of the Regular Army will be especially detailed for the training camps. Voluntary religious exercises will be held on appropriate occasions for men of all faiths. Parents and friends are cordially invited to visit the camps in every possible way that will cultivate a high sense of patriotism and loyalty to the basic values of the American citizen.

FINALS AT R. M. A. TO BEGIN MAY 26

The commencement program of the Rocky Mount High school will begin with the annual convocation on Saturday, May 26th. The annual ceremony is announced for Sunday morning, May 27th, at the Mount Vernon church. On Monday evening the school will give a "Little Women" play in the auditorium. The play will be given in the instance of the school exercises are scheduled for Tuesday night, May 29th, at 8:15, closing one of the most successful seasons in the institute history.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

On Saturday evening, May 12, Billie Durrett entertained a large number of her friends at her home near Providence with a most enjoyable birthday party. Music and games were the main features enjoyed during the evening. The music was furnished by a string orchestra from Danville. Refreshments consisting of ice cream, lemonade, cake and candy were beautifully served and enjoyed by all. Mr. Durrett received many gifts which will be of great use to him in his school home. On account of the rain, the crowd which numbered eighty-five dispersed about 11 o'clock.

Lerner was jailed on a charge of homicide, specifically for the killing of Miss Carolyn Dickerson, one of the victims of the Wall Street blast.

The prisoner is small, with a lean and clean-shaven face and a prominent nose. He is fairly well-dressed and is self-contained and smiling.

"I had nothing to do with the Wall Street explosion whatsoever," he says.

"Lerner was not at Wall Street on the day of the explosion," says his counsel.

Several special delivery letters were sent by detectives to Noah Lerner in care of the New York Kuzbass headquarters in an effort to find him. There was no answer. Finally a decoy letter was sent informing him that other mail awaited him at the Times Square postoffice. He fell into the trap and was arrested.

SEN. SWANSON SELLS ELDON

Senator Claude A. Swanson before leaving for Washington yesterday afternoon, sold Eldon, his home place about one mile from Chatham to his brother, H. C. Swanson; of this city. Consideration was not mentioned.

Eldon is an old Virginia type of home and is surrounded by 560 acres. Before Senator Swanson bought the home and remodeled it some time ago, it belonged to the estate of Judge Swanson. Senator Swanson lived there until his wife died several years ago.

H. C. Swanson said that he did not contemplate selling the property soon, but he expected to keep it and have the land cultivated.

TOBACCO PLANTS SCARCE IN TENN.

A letter was received here yesterday from Jonesboro, Tenn., by Ed Walton, of the Co-operative Marketing Association, inquiring as to where tobacco plants could be secured. Mr. Walton stated that there were no tobacco plants for sale in this section of the country, most of the planters not having sufficient for their own use. The letter would indicate that plants are also scarce in Tennessee.

(By The Associated Press) BERLIN, May 15.—The reply of the Japanese government to the recent German reparations offer was delivered to the German Foreign Office today. It declares that "both on account of the total figure mentioned as well as the methods of payments and guarantees, the Japanese government finds it is impossible to give its adherence to the German reparations project."

TEASING CAUSES BOY'S SUICIDE

(By The Associated Press) GREENVILLE, May 15.—Ten-year-old Raymond Baker lies at his home here today, a suicide because his school mates "teased" him. The boy was reprimanded by his father recently for not going to school, and gave as his reason that he was the victim of the practical jokes among his fellows. The father pointed out that this was not serious and urged him to go back to his classes. Yesterday the lad went home early, made his way to a bed room and shot himself.

Captives Taken Further Away

No Progress in Negotiations With Bandits Made—Steps Taken to Release Men.

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, May 16.—Minister Schürmann reported to the State Department today that no progress was being made in negotiations between the Chinese authorities and the bandit leaders for the release of Americans and other foreigners held captive in Shantung. The minister said there were indications that the negotiations might drag on indefinitely. The dispatch made no reference to reports that certain of the prisoners had been killed but said reports had reached Minister Schürmann from Consul Davis that the bandits had transported their prisoners farther into the mountains to the main bandit headquarters. The consul said the action had followed a conference among the bandit leaders.

Believe Morris Made Getaway

"Bill" Morris vainly sought by the police force yesterday for a violation of the Mapp act and who last Monday appeared on the streets of Danville, has apparently left the city. Enquiries made in many quarters for him yesterday and several visits to his rooms on Main street failed to reveal him. The last seen of him was when he passed Officer Ira Harris with W. M. Sneed in an automobile on Monday going to the ball game. Morris did not attend the game but after depositing Sneed at the ball park continued out the Chatham road. All of his personal effects were still here and the authorities believe that he will be arrested eventually. Enquiries were made today as to Morris' appearance on Monday. These disclose the fact that while numerous people saw Morris, policemen when apprised of his appearance sought him but could not locate him. Police Sergeant Haraway said that Sneed called him up on the telephone informing him that Morris was in Greensboro, N. C. and that he wanted to come to Danville, that he had communicated with him, and that Morris wanted him to arrange bond. Sergeant Haraway said further that the information was plainly made that Morris on arrival would present himself at police headquarters officers wait until some hours after hearing that Morris was here and when he did not appear then efforts were made to locate him but to no avail.

The charge on which Morris is wanted is carrying 20 gallons of liquor which Police Sergeant Haraway declares was found in Morris' room.

Plans to Throw Hat In Ring, But Not Like Dad

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., Assistant Secretary of the Navy, yesterday prepared to throw what kind of a ring, just what kind he did not indicate. Six straw hats found their way to his desk. They were of all styles. They came there in this wise:

The colonel needed a new "lid." He was busy writing a speech, just what kind of a speech was not stated. There was no time to go to the hat store. So the colonel telephoned: "Just send me don a bunch."

They sent six. One was said to be a navy hat, another a vice presidential hat, and a third suitable for a governor of New York. The remaining three were simply hats. The possible connection between the hats and the speech caused serious speculation.

"I may throw one of these hats into a ring, but no ring dominates me," the colonel declared.

Debris Of Fire and Flood Is Cleared Away

(By The Associated Press)
HOT SPRINGS, Ark., May 16.—Merchants reopened their doors today after a midnight through which crews of men worked in tireless efforts to remove the wreckage and debris left behind the flood and fire late Monday when torrents from a mountain cloud burst dashed upon the slopes to form raging currents in the principal streets while flames enveloped the buildings in an entire block along Central avenue. Hot Springs' main thoroughfare and the chief water head of the whirling flood, 36 hours earlier again is open to traffic though the working squads were able to clear away but a small part of the debris which the current milled against every stationary obstacle.

In May, 1922, Mr. Gould married Jeanne Sinclair, a former actress, 30 years his junior. The second marriage was regarded as almost as much of an elopement as the marriage of three of his children, Edith, George Jr., and Kingdom. The first news of it came from Paris, where the couple were spending their honeymoon, but it later transpired that the ceremony was performed in Lakewood, N. J. As a consequence of this second marriage, Mr. Gould lost property valued at $3,000,000 left by his first wife, which reverted to a trust fund for his children.

While Mr. Gould apparently enjoyed good health during the years he spent as a railroad builder, he developed during a lawsuit in 1923 that he had suffered a breakdown, and was spending out of his time in Europe recuperating from bronchial trouble.

In the spring of 1922 he became seriously ill while in Egypt, and was hurried back to his villa in southern France suffering from pneumonia. For several weeks his life was despaired of by the foremost physicians of Europe.

Mr. Gould's home in Lakewood, N. J., has been described as one of the most magnificent country places in America. It was modeled after the old English estates, and had its caretaker, its lodge, its master of the hunt and its master of the hunt.

The financier had been a lover of outdoor sports from boyhood, and continued to ride, hunt and play golf as long as his health permitted. He was a member of the New York Yacht Club, the Atlantic Yacht Club, the Royal Southampton and Royal Thames Yacht Clubs, as well as the New York Athletic Club and other national and international organizations.

George Jay Gould, financier and railroad man, succeeded to the leadership of the famous Gould family upon the death of his father, Jay Gould, December 2, 1882.

In addition to assuming responsibility as trustee and executor for the $30,000,000 estate left by his father, he carried on and expanded the great railroad holdings of the latter, and within a few years, during which he applied the "leap-frog" method of the elder Gould, he became one of America's foremost railroad financiers. The 6,000 miles of road left by Jay Gould grew into more than 20,000 miles under the management of his son, while the many investments in other business enterprises, including the Western Union Telegraph Company, also were directly managed by the principal heir.

George Jay Gould was born in New

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 16.—Some folks say a shot-gun and a "billy" club are handy things to have around—even when preaching religion.

F. W. Lubbes, adjutant of the Gospel Army Volunteers, is one of them. Lubbes is known in these parts as "The Dirty Bums of Religion." And it has been a well-earned title, those who know him intimately vouch.

But as Hans Anderson once said, "Let's begin at the beginning." And so it would be well to explain how the shot-gun and club came to decorate the pulpit, as shown in the accompanying photo.

HAS BEEN UNAFRAID
Lubbes has been fearless in his attacks on vice, booze and gambling. He was determined to drive them from the community. And so he would take his big drum and trumpet and parade the streets. Crowds trailed in his wake gathered about him in his little mission.

His has been a single-handed moral campaign. Then came the climax! He announced his next sermon would be on the subject, "The Dirty Bums of Southtown." He would use names, too, he vowed.

Now "The Dirty Bums of Southtown" is a thesis that is bound to attract attention. It did. All paths led in the direction of the little mission that night. Most of the population came in, but many stayed outside. The group on the outside gathered in numbers, until, as crowds go, it developed into a mob.

Many of the unwelcome intruders may have had experience in throwing hand grenades. If so, they tried their newly acquired art, but substituted stones. The cobbles crashed through the windows of the mission and the mob crashed through the doors.

Leaders carried buckets of water, which they intended to douse the preacher's eloquence. Thus the meeting was broken up.

But never flinching, Lubbes next day announced the regular service would go ahead as usual. And if any disturbers appeared, they would be greeted by buckshot and club.

Now all is serene.

The police, whom he has helped rid the community of hoodlums and other undesirables, rallied to his aid. They placed an extra patrol on duty, and the wide-way outside of the mission resembled for a time the courtyard of Buckingham Palace when the king's guard is holding a review.

RELIES ON ARMORY.
Passersby are scrutinized carefully.

York City, February 6, 1864, the sixth in line of descent from Major Nathan Gould, or Gould, the great ancestor, who came from the south of England in 1648 and settled in Fairfield, Conn. While many of Nathan Gould's descendants attained eminence in colonial affairs and through service in the Revolutionary War, it remained for Jay Gould to become the first financier.

The Gould family fortune dates from 1860, when Jay Gould, a partner in his father's hardware store in Delaware county, New York, bought for ten cents on the dollar a controlling interest in the Rutland and Washington railroad, a little bankrupt line running between Troy, New York, and Rutland, Vt. Young Gould had succeeded in extricating it from financial difficulties, whereupon he sold at 120 the interest originally acquired at ten. This was the first feat of that generalship which, over and over in later life, made him the foremost railroad developer of his time.

George Jay Gould, ever when quite young, showed an inclination to follow in the footsteps of his father. He received a thorough education from private instructors, and subsequently entered Columbia University, but was not graduated.

After a tour of Europe, he became a clerk in the Western Union office, where he developed such an aptitude for detail that he soon became the assistant of his father. George Gould was at his desk ten hours a day, and often remained long into the night, learning the business which, when he became its vice-president a few years later, operated more than a million miles of telegraph wire.

This apprenticeship prepared him for the responsibility devolving upon him when Jay Gould died. Soon after which he obtained full charge of his father's interests, he called upon J. Pierpont Morgan in regard to the purchase of the New York and Northern railway by the Manhattan Elevated road, something which Gould never to enter the Morgan offices again.

Fearing, however, that he had made a powerful enemy, he determined to neutralize its effect by an alliance with the financial interests of the world. He called upon John D. Rockefeller, outlined his plans, and asked the oil magnate's advice.

There was something in young Gould's manner that won the friendship of Mr. Rockefeller, and a plan for a controversial operation of the Rockefeller and Gould railroad interests was arranged.

Next, Mr. Gould seized upon a circumstance which brought him close to Andrew Carnegie, who was engaged in a controversy with the Pennsylvania railroad at the time. The iron master offered Gould a liberal contract in exchange for bringing the Wabash road into Pittsburgh on its way to the Atlantic coast, and through these concessions the railroad builder secured another powerful friend.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., May 16.—The Shipping Board steamer Leviathan delayed by fog yesterday left Newport News at 5:25 o'clock this morning for Boston where she will be redecked for the finishing touches of her reconversion for trans-Atlantic passenger and freight service. The big liner made the trip down the channel without mishap, shipping slowly through the water, and then planes circled overhead and thousands of watchers on shore and aboard the many craft near the banks cheered and whistled when the Leviathan left the dock of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co. soon after another shipping board steamer, the President Buchanan, arrived for reconversion at a cost of $4,500,000. Work on the President Buchanan will give employment to about 2,000 men and will require three hundred and fifty-five days.

and those carrying buckets of water are viewed with downright suspicion. No one is permitted in front of the little mission house. Go in, or go on, say the police.

"If they want shot-gun religion," snaps the fighting parson, "I'm here to give it to them. No intimidation goes with me. I'm converting folks every day, and lifting them to a higher plane of life."

"And," he paused significantly, pointing to his armory, "I'll keep on, until I convert the very fellows who stoned my mission and doused me."

His Mind Blank Wanderer Finds Himself Here

The police have in charge a man, who claims that he is suffering from a lapse of memory and can give little information about himself. Efforts are being made to reach the man's father so that money may be sent to him in order that he might go back home after an absence of several years. The man gives his name as C. M. Barton. He approached Officer Foster Harris on a street nearby this morning and asked that he be taken in charge until he could reach his people.

Barton complains that he came to himself in Danville this morning when an early train arrived from the North. He says that at frequent periods his mind becomes blank and he does not know what is going on. He claims he suffered from shell shock during the war. Barton stated that he was discharged from a hospital in Baltimore three weeks ago on condition that he return to his home. This he did not do. Since then he has no memory of what he has done or where he has been. Only a brief interval does he clearly remember, he says. The man stated that he boarded a train somewhere in the north and the last he remembered, when he found himself here, was being taken to the train at Alexandria. He does not know how he got here. His mind became clear long enough for him to remember that his people lived in Valdosta, Ga. Why he has not been home he cannot account for since he does not believe he is a Jew or what he does most of the time.

Grand Jury Demands More Proof That Skeleton Is That of Mount

(Special to The Bee.)
CHICAGO, May 16.—Investigation into the Leighton Mount mystery took a startling turn today when the grand jury demanded more proof that the skeleton found under the pier was actually that of Mount and additional proof that he is dead. The jury then adjourned to Wednesday to give the State time to meet these demands.

In line with this action, which indicates the State has made slow progress so far, came a letter from P. A. Nelson, of Cashton, Wis., asking that the skeleton be re-examined to determine whether or not it is that of his nephew, Norman A. Campbell, a senior in Northwestern, who has been missing since January, 1922. The missing man was 22 years old, 5 feet 5 inches tall and weighed 165 pounds. He was of regular habits and his disappearance has been another of the mysteries of Northwestern. "The descriptions fits that of Leighton Mount closely."

While not sidetracking the possibility that Mount was killed by over enthusiastic rivals in the campus battle, the sub-investigation has developed these points in conflict with that theory.

The boy who discovered the skeleton says there were no rocks piled on it.

The belt buckle, initialed "L. M." was far enough from the bones to indicate there was no connection between them.

The chopathic experts, who have studied Mount's character, and he was of a moody disposition, inclined to suicide or to doing desperate things in an unusual manner.

A friend of the missing student, who helped the Mount family search for him, said he is certain the boy was alive three weeks after the campus fight.

The State prosecutors today began veering to the suicide theory, or that Mount ran away deliberately. It is said he was not doing well in school and this worried him. His friends also say his relations at home were not harmonious and a third cause of annoyance was the objections of his parents to Miss Doris Fuchs, of whom he was quite fond.

In response to the demand of the grand jury for more evidence that the skeleton is that of Mount, the State points out that the dentist who worked on Mount's teeth positively identifies the jaws of the skeleton as that of Mount. This seems to be the only positive identification. The jury asks more than this before it can proceed.

States Attorney Crowe today made public an anonymous letter in which the writer says that John Scott, son of President Scott of the University and Fred Scott, nephew of the President, had blackened eyes the morning after the class battle in which Mount disappeared. An anonymous telephone call also informed the prosecutor that a girl student at the university of Illinois had received a letter as late as last fall from Helen Mount, sister of the missing man, saying they had a letter from him.

Roscoe Conkling Fitch, the student whose first eight confessions that he "knew all about the Mount tragedy" and his subsequent retraction, began to fade out of the picture today. His father arrived from Ludington, Mich., and tried to induce Fitch to accompany him back home.

"Nothing doing," was the answer. "I'm getting strawberry short cake three times a day. This is the life." Young Fitch enjoys the limelight. He has a trunk full of clippings mentioning his name and containing his pictures. Other students at the university allude to him as a "nut." But admit he is successful in earning his way through school. In the two years he has been at Northwestern he has earned more than $3,000, paid all his expenses and sent home $1,000 to help his parents buy a home.

Scoop's Column

DRAKES BRANCH, May 15. (Grapevine Wire)—This sounds like one of those "good stories" that are always in the Universal News Service.

There is one man in the United States to whom the notice that the quarterly income tax payment was due didn't bring a frown. Instead, his letter of acknowledgement caused smiles among the treasury officials as they began their heavy task of receiving and checking up the six or seven hundred million expected in the installment.

The letter was as follows: (It sounds like a Woodman's and is vouched for by no less a person than the collector of the districts: "Dear Treasury: "I received your application blank. But I already belong to several orders and as my wife objects to my going out so much I do not care to join the income taxes at this time. Respectfully and fraternally,"

Only Three Days! Thursday, Friday, Saturday—last three days in the subscription campaign. Deposit subscription orders and votes at The First National Bank, in the locked ballot box. The judges will make the final count and award the five automobiles and cash prizes on Saturday night. It only takes VOTES to win!

For that tired feeling try Waffles and Honey!

Anxious Moments! "What would you do if I kissed you?" "I'd call my brother."

Between Ourselves. My dear, beyond a doubt you wonder what there is about you that evokes my admiration, so I'm going to be frank. And your nose is overblown. For a cursory inspection reveals 'tis artificial—and your figure's much too lank!

Your efforts intellectual. Are, I must say, ineffectual. (To be candid, you're a lowbrow in a very thin disguise.)

Your girlish charm has wilted. And your nose is overblown. And I saw when first I met you you had intersecting eyes.

Take it from a corned beef and cabbage man: I'm a perfect brute, I realize, but I hope you're not offended. Snuggle closer and I'll wile you up on why I idolize you.

"Because you let your eyebrows grow the way the Lord intended!"

Fireworks are pretty—but they don't last long. Don't be a "fireworks" advertiser.

Think twice before speaking and then look around to see who's present.

A Double Scoop. Yesterday, editorially, said the able journalist, said the first, news-papers to publish the death of John L. Smith. Today we are the first to deny the report. The Bugle is always in the lead.

I once saw a man who was so much in love that he couldn't eat. Candy, and theatre parties kept him hungry.

"Haven't Got Time!" By which this old world is accused. This "haven't got time" is by far the poorest, the feeblest, the worst. A delusion it is, and a snare; if the babe is yours, you should shake it.

For if you want to do what is offered to you, You'll find time to do it, or make it.

Junius says: "My girl's so ignorant that when I told her I'd fed pigs, she said, 'I just washed 'em with a germ killer.'"

"I'm beginning to miss my husband," said Mrs. Murphy, as she rolled pin grazed Red Mike's head and hit the wall.

Signs. Abe says: "When you catch a girl studying the marriage laws and the tables to Reno at the same time you can figure she's in an uncertain state of mind."

J. T. Posey thinks the threatened strike of raisin growers in California should be of current interest.

Col. Bill Keeding says what man is demanding these days is a "flattering wage."

Thinking is the hardest job in the world; that's why we have so few successful men. Most folks avoid hard thought.

"Stitch down on wishes!" Don't change your fate. Lord provides the fish! You must dig the bait!

Art! "Oh, I just love art," said the soulful maid. And she heaved a soulful sigh. "Art who?" asked the flapper. "I don't believe I have ever met that guy."

Col. Bill Horner says it was a lawn mower that figured first in public ownership.

One good way to reduce to music is to listen to the musical clink of the trace chains on the plow harness.

Estate Valuations. Ray-Woods are inadequate to express my love for you my— "You said it, Ray, old dear! Say it with fervor."

Ray-Woods are inadequate to express my love for you my— "You said it, Ray, old dear! Say it with fervor."

THE OLD HOME TOWN

LIKE TO GO BAREHEADED? WELL, YOU MUST BE INSANE!

SEATTLE, May 15.—When you visit Seattle be sure to bring along your hat. Otherwise a policeman is liable to approach you cautiously and say with a smile: "Come King, the Queen awaits you!"

For in the ABC's of Seattle police instruction, according to works of literary Chief Severy, it is right, can't be convinced that going without a hat on a nice, sunny day is exactly a crime.

Yet they claim cops then and submit them to a line of questioning that has a suspicious ring to it. "Why have you no hat?" "Why are you walking around the streets with our head naked?" Those are dirty questions, aren't they?

Naturally the students are indignant. But when pressed for an explanation the chief replied: "Well, the cops have good reason for stopping them. Bareheadedness is the first sign of insanity. We capture most of our four lunatics in that manner."

So do come to Seattle! You MUST come over. But bring along your hat!

FIRPO-WILLARD MATCH PLANNED

(By The Associated Press) NEW YORK, May 15.—The preliminary move toward another contest for the world heavyweight championship was made today by Tex Rickard, promoter, in the signing of Jess Willard former title holder and Luis Firpo, Argentine gladiator, for a contest to be held in New York or vicinity not later than July 7.

The winner of this engagement will be matched with Jack Dempsey in a title contest, which probably will be held next Labor Day.

Rickard declined to reveal the terms for the Firpo-Willard match except that they will fight on a percentage basis. Experts, however, figure that the bout will draw a gate of at least a half million dollars and that the share of each principal would be at least $100,000.

The contest will be staged either at Boyle's Thirty Acres in Jersey City or at the Yankee Stadium. The Yankees will occupy the park on both June 30, the original date suggested for the match, and July 4, but will be away on Saturday, July 7.

The attitude of the State Athletic Commission toward Willard, who has been hearing on whether the bout is staged here, William Muldoon, chairman of the commission and over 33 years of age appearing in boxing contests in this state, last Saturday because the affair was for charity.

It was believed, however, that the age ruling would be set aside by the commission in view of Willard's victory over Johnson, a man half his age.

LETTER FROM BEATRICE GRIMSHAW HER FRIEND, SALLY AETHERTON

Just why I am to be the recipient of my married friends' griefs and grievances I do not quite understand. Of course, dear Sally, I am highly flattered that you make me such a confidant, but never having been married myself and being still under thirty, I sometimes feel that I must be somewhat inadequate in the capacity of adviser in chief of either you or Leslie.

Yes, my dear Sally, the very day I got your letter I received one from Leslie in which she said with much truth that it was the little annoyances of life that made up modern matrimony.

She almost made me believe that she had made out her case until I received your letter.

You are wrestling with a great problem, dear Sally, and perhaps it does you a great deal of good to be able to tell it all to me. I am sure if you wish to tell me and it helps you, I am only too glad to hear it.

But as much as I might say, as much as I might advise, your problem is one which no one can solve for you. You say you are afraid you are hard because you have not the sympathy for Sam you might have. You also wonder if anyone knows why he or she marries.

Although I have not experienced these reactions myself I believe that they come to every married woman

ENGINEER DIES; TRAIN RACES ON

CENTRAL ISLE, L. I., May 15.—While more than a hundred passengers sat unconcerned on a Long Island train and the fireman was too busy stoking his fires to notice anything, Engineer George B. Cunningham, 40, died of a heart attack while driving the train.

When it kept up its mile-a-minute clip past the station at Central Isle, and raced over a grade crossing with out its usual warning whistle, Conductor John J. McKeever knew something had happened forward and stopped the train with the emergency brake.

The escape of the trainload of passengers from disaster through the quick wit of the conductor, became known today. It was on Sunday night when the engineer collapsed.

The fireman, William Carranza, looked up from his fires when he felt the train rock to a stop, and found his engineer dead. His head fallen from the throttle. A heart failure attack caused the engineer's death.

SPAIN HONORS IMMORTAL AUTHOR. MADRID, May 15.—To celebrate the centenary of the death of Cervantes, the Spanish government has issued a special edition in four volumes of "Don Quixote." The edition is limited to 125 sets, and is illustrated with about 100 drawings by the Spanish artist, Senor Don Ricardo Marin.

The sets will be given only to distinguished men in Spain and to Pope Pius. King George and the King of Italy. In the case of the sets for King George and King George, King Alfonso has autographed the dedication.

some time in her life and usually it is within the first three years.

In the first place, Sally dear, I wonder if you remember the words, "Love, honor and cherish, until death do you part." I would have been right with you, dear Sally, if I had known that I had been impossible to honor him.

Sam is a good man, a charming man. He is only weak and I do not think that you have any right to pity yourself, to the exclusion of feeling sorry for him over this terrible thing that has come to your husband.

You know you did love him well enough to marry him. Have you found out already that you did not love him well enough to be his wife. The love of a wife means tenderness, sacrifice, every ready sympathy. It means comradeship in the best sense of the word.

Of course these may seem hard ideas of a woman who is not yet married, but in a way Sam's dereliction was not grievous and his punishment seems more hard. I quite agree with you, however, that Mr. White, his boss, is a beast and my old "mammy" used to say that "man liked to think of himself as king of the beasts."

Mr. White is surely deserving of that honor.

Here comes someone to take the old motoring. Will finish my letter tomorrow.

TOMORROW: The lower continues—Sally for a dreamboat.

Calvin Gray couples the most expensive suite in the most exclusive hotel in Dallas. He introduces himself to the hotel manager, the president of the largest bank and to the mayor. For a friend, he tells valuable diamonds to Duke Leto, a wealthy man in Dallas. Gray undertakes a journey to Ranger to sell valuable diamonds to Duke Leto, a wealthy man in Dallas. Gray undertakes a journey to Ranger to sell valuable diamonds to Duke Leto, a wealthy man in Dallas.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

For a second time the driver flashed a glance at his companion. It was a peculiar remark and voiced in a queer tone. "Yest? Why?"

"Because," Gray shifted his position, there was a movement of his right hand—the one farthest away from the man at the wheel—and simultaneously his left arm slipped from the back of the seat and lighted encircled the latter's waist. He finished in a wholly unfamiliar voice, "Because, my good man, you are now held up for the third time, and it would distress me to have to kill you."

The driver uttered a loud grunt, for something sharp and hard had been thrust deeply into that soft, sensitive region overlying his liver, and now it was held there. It was unnecessary for Gray to order the car stopped; its brakes squealed, it ceased its progress as abruptly as if it had been checked by a sudden stop.

Gray was grim, mocking; some violent, evil quality to his voice suggested extreme malignity at full cock. Like that unseen weapon the number of which was warped beneath the driver's short ribs. "Aah! You go armed, I see. A double-barrel, as I suspected. I knew your victim's upstretched right hand with his own left, he gave it a sudden fierce wrench that all but snapped the wrist, and at the same instant he reached across and snatched the concealed weapon from its resting place. He flung the chamber's heavy away from him, there was a sharp click as he swiftly jammed the barrel of the automatic back and let it fly into place.

The entire maneuver had been deftly executed, even yet the object of the assault was speechless.

"Now then," the passenger thood about in his seat and showed his teeth in a smile. "It is customary to permit the condemned to enjoy the last word. What have you to say for yourself?"

"If you think it's funny to jab a gun in a man's belly when he ain't lookin'—"

"A gun? My simple friend, you have—or had—the only gun in this party, and you may thank whatever gods you worship that you didn't try to use it. For—I would have been right with you. This is the 'gun' I want to stick you in." With a rigidly orthodox thumb Gray pressed the driver in the side. "Simple, isn't it? And so chance for accidents." The speaker's shoulders were shaking.

"Well, I'll be damned!"

"Not a doubt of it!" chuckled the other. "Especially if you follow in the course you have chosen. And a similar fate will overtake your pal, Malloy. It might save you several miles of ted walking to tell me where Malloy is waiting to high-tail me. . . . Not?"

"Go to hell!"

"Very well. Obedience now by getting out. . . . And make it snappy!"

The driver did as directed. Gray peered the automatic, slipped in behind the steering wheel, and drove away into the night, followed by loud and earnest objections.

AN UNSEEN HAND APPEARED TO STRIKE THEM BOTH DOWN.

to step aside, then he swung it far to the right, brought it back with a quick twist of the steering wheel, and killed his motor. He was in the ditch and clutching the binding glare of the spotlight headlights; the stalled machine was in the full illumination of his own lamps.

Contrary to Gray's expectations, the car in the road was empty and the man who had halted him was a stranger. As the latter approached, he inquired:

"What's wrong?"

"Out of gas, I guess. Anyhow—"

"The speaker noted that there was but one new arrival, where he expected two, and the discovery appeared to surprise him momentarily. He stammered, involuntarily he turned his head.

Gray looked in the same direction, but out of the corner of his eye he glimpsed a new figure emerging from the shadows behind him. Very clever! But, at least, his unexpected maneuver with his own car had made it necessary for both men to approach him from the same side.

While the first stranger continued to mumble, Gray sat motionless, keenly conscious, meanwhile, of that other presence closing in upon him from the rear. He remained a violent start when a second voice cried:

"Don't move. I've got you covered."

"What? It's—It's Mr. Malloy?" Gray blushed himself further afield in his seat and leaned forward in justifiable amazement.

"Shut up!" Malloy snapped. "Frank him, Tony, and—"

The command was cut short by a started, throaty cry—a hoarse sound of astonishment and rage—and simultaneously a figure in a pho-somewhat thing occurred. An unseen hand appeared to strike down both Malloy and his accomplice, where they stood, and it smote them, nine-over, with appalling force and terrifying effect.

The man understood vaguely what had afflicted them, for they had seen Gray hit one hand from the wheel, and out of that hand they had seen a stream of liquid, or a jet of aqueous vapor, leap.

Gray squeezed again the rubber bulb that he had carried in his hand these last several miles, ejecting from it the last few drops of its contents, then he opened the car door, stepped out of it and stood over his straggling victims.

Gray held to work promptly. The bottle of cream he had begged from his Briskow now put in use. With this soothing liquid he first washed out their eyes, the membranes of which were raw and spongy, and en-circulatingly sensitive to light, then he bandaged them as best he could with compresses, wet in ice.

"You'll breathe easier as time goes on," he announced. "You'll cough a good deal for a few days, but where you are going that won't disturb anybody. Your eyes will get well, too, if you take care of them as I direct. But, meanwhile, let me warn you against lifting those bandages. Advice me, as they dry out and I'll tell them again."

A blessed relief stole over the unfortunate pair; they were still sick and weak, but for a short time the acute pain of their suffering had diminished sufficiently for Gray to help them into the back seat of his car and resume his journey.

Within a few minutes of Gray's arrival at Ranger, the town was agley with the story, for he drove down the brightly lighted main street and stopped in front of the most populous cafe. There he called loudly for a policeman, and when the latter showed his way through the crowd, Gray told him in plain hearing of all, enough of his experience to electrify everybody.

Nothing like this had occurred during the brief, busy life of the town. It was a dramatic incident, but the manner in which this capable stranger had handled it and the assistance he had brought upon his assailants appealed more to the residents than to the anger of Ranger. Admiration for him displaced indignation at the high-jackers; cries for vengeance upon them were drowned in noisy appreciation of their captor.

CHAPTER VII

His Good Plays Angel

COVERLY was at the station when Gray's train arrived at Dallas the next morning. He was suffering intense excitement, and he delegated his friend with a flood of questions, meanwhile flourishing the morning paper, all of which appeared to have devoted much space to the Ranger episode. He hungered Gray, and he pounced on him, he laughed and he chuckled; he insisted upon hearing the whole story without delay. On that way uptown, the returning hero gave it to him, together with Gus Briskow's check.

"Speaking of your commissions, how am I going to pay you for the trouble you've gone through? I wouldn't have done as well, but for the loan you saved the firm and for the risk you ran?"

"You may give me anything you see fit," Gray declared, "and I shan't embarrass you by refusing. On the contrary, go as strongly as you possibly can."

Coverly actually appeared to be relieved at this statement, but he inquired, curiously: "What have you got up your sleeve? You don't need money."

"Obviously not. But I know a needy object of charity; a worthy case, I assure you. I can scarcely call him a friend, but I need to educate him morally, and he is still an amiable, capable, energetic, and capable man."

"Disputed. Your money shall go to him, and with every dollar of it that he squanders, there shall arise an earnest orison to you."

TWO MISSING IN BOILER BLAST

(By The Associated Press)
GREENWOOD, S. C., May 15.—Two white men are seriously, if not fatally injured and two negroes missing as the result of an explosion of two large boilers in the boiler room of mill number 1, of the Greenwood Cotton Mills here tonight at eight o'clock. Seven others are slightly injured. A log weighing 3000 pounds connecting the boilers was hurled about 100 yards from the mill by the force of the explosion. Greenwood has just been visited by a storm of hurricane intensity with heavy rains and the city electric lights were out at the time of the explosion.

CO-OPS RETURN
SEVENTEEN OF
OLD DIRECTORS

(Special From Tobacco Growers News Bureau)

RALEIGH, N. C., May 15.—Re-electing 17 out of 32 of their directors, 39,000 tobacco growers through their elected delegates cast an overwhelming vote of confidence in the management of the Tobacco Growers Co-operative Association according to the final election returns confirmed at Raleigh headquarters today.

Every director from Virginia, South Carolina, and from Eastern North Carolina, who had labored with the association in its first successful year of growth was returned to office by the members from three States.

The only changes which took place in the entire directorate were in the Old Belt of North Carolina, where several of the directors expressed their desire to retire from the board of the Tobacco Co-operative Association because of pressure from other business interests. E. G. Moss, of Oxford, who insisted upon retiring after a full year of work with the board, was succeeded by C. T. Hall, of Woodville, Person county, as director for the eighth district. E. G. Moss, of Oxford, who insisted upon retiring after a full year of work with the board, was succeeded by C. T. Hall, of Woodville, Person county, as director for the eighth district. E. G. Moss, of Oxford, who insisted upon retiring after a full year of work with the board, was succeeded by C. T. Hall, of Woodville, Person county, as director for the eighth district.

Other new directors whose election was confirmed at Raleigh today are: Clyde P. Harris, of the seventh district, representing Franklin and Vance counties; R. H. Montgomery, of Reidsville, representing the growers of Caswell, Guilford, Randolph and Rockingham counties, which compose the eighth district; and A. B. Speer, of Booneville, Yadkin county, who as director of the twelfth district was chosen by the growers of the westernmost tobacco growing counties of North Carolina.

That practically only three districts out of 22 which compose the area of the Tobacco Growers Co-operative Association should have been contested in the election of directors for 1923 is regarded as a striking tribute to the men who have managed the association which has received 163,000,000 pounds of tobacco and increased its membership more than 35 per cent since its incorporation.

According to the confirming of election returns by the members of the association at their annual meeting in Raleigh today the following directors of two districts of three states for the coming year.

- J. A. Brown, Chatham, N. C., District No. 1.

Presbyterians Hold Up Plan of Church Government

PROMINENT FIGURES AT THE PRESBYTERIAN ANNUAL ASSEMBLY AT INDIANAPOLIS, MAY 17-24. LEFT TO RIGHT: DR. CALVIN C. HAYS, MODERATOR; DR. J. W. BAER, FIRST LAYMAN MODERATOR; DR. LEWIS S. MUDGE, STATED CLERK.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 16.—Two years of effort to establish a new form of government for the Presbyterian Church of the United States will remain undecided when the General Assembly holds its annual meeting here, May 17-24.

In the face of keen opposition to certain proposals in the new plan of government, it is expected another year will have to pass before any definite action will result.

This is the opinion of influential members of the Presbyterian Church who will take part in the General Assembly here. According to these individuals, even though the necessary number of 151 affirmative votes of the presbyteries of the country are gained for the plan, amendments will be offered at the General Assembly, so that the presbyteries would have to vote again on the plan as amended during the coming year. Its adoption, therefore, is not expected for another year.

The new plan of government is termed "Overture E" and provides for the establishment of a General Council, a "central organization" to have supervision over the spiritual and material interests of the church. The General Council would, in short serve as a mediating agency, or clearing agency, for all questions of major importance to the church. Opposition to the proposed plan is centered against the provision to provide for a paid chairman whose term would be five years, the criticism being that this would set up an individual authority repugnant to the spirit of the democratic organization of the church. Opposition is also expressed against centralization of authority in the hands of a few.

FAMOUS SPEAKERS
William Jennings Bryan, elected commissioner to the General Assembly this year, will be the principal speaker at the popular mass meeting on Sunday afternoon, May 19. Another figure of national prominence at the same meeting will be Secretary Hubert Work of the Department of the Interior, who has been invited to address the commissioners.

Other prominent figures at the General Assembly include Captain Robert Dollar, noted Pacific Coast steamship magnate, and Dr. John Willis Baer, famous Los Angeles banker, who has the distinction of being the only layman who has ever held the office of moderator, or presiding officer, of the Presbyterian Church of the United States.

FRENCH TAKE FOUR PLANTS

(By The Associated Press)

DUESSELDORF, May 15.—Four dye and chemical plants, one of them the largest in the world, were taken over by French and Belgian troops of occupation today. The largest plant is the Baden Aniline Plant near Ludwigshafen, employing 40,000 workers.

Two other plants, the Meister Lucius and Brueuning Works at Hoechst, near Frankfurt, and the Kali-Bleibach Works near Wiesbaden, were occupied by the French, while the Belgians took charge of a large plant near Crefeld.

These works are part of the German dye trust which during the war manufactured high explosives and poison gas. It was explained at French headquarters that they were occupied because the owners, under the provisions of the treaty of they had failed to make since the Ruhr occupation.

The German workmen at the plant went on strike as soon as the French and Belgian troops appeared upon the scene.

CINCINNATI, O., May 15.—A romance begun fifteen years ago, when both were in danger of death as they battled a great fire, has culminated in the marriage of Miss Josephine Kesselman, 30, and John A. Cameron, 32, married today.

At the time of the Neave building fire in 1908, one of the largest fires in this city, they were outstanding figures in the work of rescuing families of girls employed in the building. Cameron was a Carnegie medal and $1,000 and the modest was listed at fire department headquarters as a hero.

That was their first meeting—the marriage took place in Chicago December 1, but was not revealed to friends until a few days ago.

SEEK TO AVERT
GRAECO-TURKISH
BREAK AT MEET

(By The Associated Press)
LAUSANNE, May 15.—The efforts of the allies at the Near East Peace Conference here are being directed at present toward averting a possible break between Greece and Turkey over the question of reparations.

Former Premier Venizelos and M. Alexanderis, the Greek Foreign Minister, had a lengthy conference yesterday with Ismet Pasha, head of the Turkish delegation on this question. So far as appears no grounds for a speedy and satisfactory solution were discovered. It is declared, however, that Greece's position was emphatically stated by M. Venizelos and that he warned Ismet that Greece with her army at present strong and well equipped would not stand for any payment of reparations over and above the sum which might be added as due Greece from Turkey. Venizelos and Alexanderis have warned both the Turks and the allies that they are ready to quit the conference if the Turks insist upon dragging money out of impoverished Greece.

Greece has been told in a kindly way that she can expect no primary like general enforcement of the law against smuggling would be out of the question. The defense contended that the opium, 5500 cans of which were confiscated by customs officials, was not entered on the ship's manifest and that Captain Green had no connection with the alleged smuggling.

DEADLOCK OVER
DEBT UNBROKEN

(By The Associated Press)
PARIS, May 15.—The deadlock between the allies and the United States on a final agreement for payment of the American Army costs in the Rhineland remained unbroken after another session this afternoon, when the text of the proposed accord was again examined. It was found that the disputed point, whether the allies will be permitted to abrogate the agreement in case the United States pursues directly the collection of war damages from Germany, must again be referred to the allied government.

Elliot Washburn, representing the American Treasury Department, is understood to have remained firm in demanding liberty of action for the United States on the question of war damages, while the allies are equally uncompromising in upholding their theory that if the United States proceeds to collect war damages from Germany she can at the same time collect her own occupation expenses.

The allies contend that the separation of reparations or war damages from the expenses of the armies of occupation is impracticable. The European delegates tonight expressed hope that an agreement will finally be reached.

WOMAN CLIMBS
LINER FUNNELS

HOBOKEN, N. J., May 15.—Miss Mary Krieg, seventeen, of Elizabeth, N. J., claiming to be the only one of her sex to have climbed one of the funnels of the liner Leviathan. She has just returned to her home after a trip to Newport News, Va., where the big steamship is being refitted. Dared to scale the big pipe, she took the dare and twenty minutes later was at the top, peering down on the U. S. S. West Virginia at anchor nearby.

Miss Krieg's step-father, Walter From, had charge of the work on the ship. She was taken by him to Newport News to see the vessel, while gazing at the funnel Miss Krieg remarked about its towering size. George H. TORNADO SWEEP
OVER BYESVILLE

(By The Associated Press)
CAMBRIDGE, O., May 15.—More than a score of persons were injured, one perhaps fatally, tonight when a tornado swept over Byesville, five miles south of here. Fifty houses were either blown down or unroofed, according to reports received over crippled communication lines.

Charles Griffith, 65, was so badly crushed when his home was demolished that his death is expected. Anna Reed, 13, was badly hurt when the house occupied by her parents was blown down.

Most of the injured were struck by falling or flying debris. A heavy rain preceeded the high wind.

BYRD IS ASKED FOR OPINION

(By The Associated Press)
CREWE, Va., May 15.—The Nottingham county Democratic executive committee, at a meeting here today, decided to ask State Chairman Harry Flood Byrd to construe the primary election and render an opinion as to the status of persons who in the last election voted for the Republican candidate for governor and for the Democratic candidate for member of the house of delegates. The committee wants to know if these voters are entitled to participation in the Democratic primary of August 7.

SPRAY, N. C., CARGO
IS SAVED AT SEA

(By The Associated Press)
NORFOLK, Va., May 15.—The American steamer Santa Marta, which ran aground off Cape Henry in a heavy fog this morning, was floated tonight and proceeded to this port under her own steam.

She has on board a cargo of Chinese cotton, to be discharged here for transshipment to Spray, N. C., for manufacture into a certain variety of viscose silk for a Chicago concern.

Captain R. C. Francis, a Virginia pilot, was unable to leave the out-police steamship West Islet, owing to the dense fog, and was carried to sea. The West Islet is bound for St. John, New Brunswick.

Why They're Using JOINT-EASE

(For) Sore Feet

Just because it is now known that painful sore, aching swollen feet are caused by the many joints in the foot and foot case going right in and gets to the seat of the trouble—the cartilage and ligaments of the joints.

And to think that for generations we have been powdering and soaking our feet thinking the trouble was only skin deep—an old fashioned idea. Well, better late than never—just stop the powdering and medical bathing and other foolishness for three days and just rub on Joint-Ease—And remember when stainless Joint-Ease goes in foot agony goes out—quick—50 cents a tube.

Expect Firpo to Trim Willard Within Two Rounds in Big Row

BY HARRY NEWMAN
NEW YORK, May 16.—(Radio)—Willard has scratched his signature along a dotted line in Tex Rickard's private office in Madison Square Garden and thus agreed to battle Luis Firpo, Argentine "Tiger man," in a bout to be staged around this section not later than July 7. Firpo will affix his John Hancock today, and then will follow the arrangement of all the details and a brushing up of the scene of combat.

Gene Sarazen Gives Golfers At Leeds a Surprise

(Copyright 1923 by Chicago Tribune)
LEEDS, May 16.—(Radio)—Gene Sarazen, the little American champion who is sure in stature but great in ability, gave us a surprise. More than 150 of us were down to play in the first of two qualifying rounds for 32 plays in a tournament at Headingley, Leeds, in search of about 750 pounds provided by a newspaper proprietor. Although Sarazen's name was among the starters he was not expected to play.

We had heard that he had gone straight from Paris to test the qualities of the Troon links, where he hopes to win the British championship but to our astonishment he appeared fresh and well, almost stepping direct from an aeroplane to the first tee. Now the golfers did not expect that he would be at his best under conditions like these. The American champion had not struck a ball in Great Britain but he did very well indeed, in spite of the curious gaze of reporters and spectators.

Personally I thought that he had developed his swing and his fine free hitting earned him much admiration. He was four strokes upon his partner, another diminutive player, F. C. Jewell, of London, after nine holes had been played but he lost them all, coming home where his partner was not so down. I know very well the difference between American and British putting greens, and I could fully sympathize with him.

However, his score gives him a great deal more chance of qualifying than I have. He took 75 and he has only to make another similar score to be certain to show what he can do in the main play. I did an eighty-and-I will have to do a lot of looking on unless I can knock something like ten strokes off that tomorrow.

RAIN PREVENTS WINSTON GAME

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., May 15.—The game scheduled for this afternoon between the Twins and Raleigh was called off on account of wet grounds, following a heavy rain just before the contest was to be started.

Harris Invincible In All But Single Inning of a Game

The slugging Tobaccoconist yesterday made the record two straight wins in its first series with Manager Gooch's dangerous Bulls of the current season. The game was won by superior and sustained batting by Manager Murphy's clan, but it was no walkover and by no means an assured fact until the very end.

Starting with an early lead, the Murphys added to it in the sixth and seventh, and as the sequel proved, secured just sufficient runs to withstand the terrific Bull rally in the eighth inning. The Durhamites honored in that inning and were restrained only by fast and sure fielding in the ninth from tying the score.

The statistical dope shows that Danville landed for ten bases for a total of 16 bases, while Durham is credited with six bingles for a total of 11 bases. Each side had a home run to its credit, Manager Murphy getting into his old habit in the sixth, but with no one on base. On the contrary, Paul Danielli, hammering his homer in the eighth, with a line pitched on second at the time. Then Gooch binged and Rodgers drove a long hard line-drive to the extreme center-field corner, thus accounting for the visitors' third and final run.

Saddler and Leo Harris were the opposing hitters and the Durhamites man got away to a bad start, whereas Danville was more fortunate, or skillful, as one prefers to regard it. The fact is Harris was in great form and had yielded but one hit in seven innings, while Danville was accumulating ten, but the eighth-inning, which by his has become a critical inning in all games recently—the Bulls panned stocky local boxman for four hits good for nine bases.

Both twirlers started by walking the first batsman, but a quick double play soon eliminated the Durham peddler. Dorman for Danville was advised by Allison's beautiful-bunt, which was so good it had to be scored as a base hit instead. Saddler in fielding it fell and made the mistake of trying to cut off the runner, a desperate loss launched while the throw was useless for Allison had it beaten and instead of Dorman merely advancing a base, he completed the circuit and Allison reached second, only to be eliminated a moment later by Rodgers with a double. Smith's line fly, with one in and two out, Trefler hit to left for two bases, and Murphy cracked a two-cushion shot to deep center, driving the second run.

Myers poked a single into short right in Durham's second, but Rescoe fanned and Kearney sent up a fly to Allison. It was 1-2-3 and out for the Bulls in the third, fourth and fifth. Danville got a hit in the third, an other single following a pass with one in and two out in the fifth. In the sixth, Manager Murphy swelled the local total to three by his long over-the-garden-wall clout in left center. Jesmer followed with his second hit, but was thrown out trying to steal, as Allison had been in the third.

The decisive run, as it proved, was scored by Heckle in the seventh on his single. Catcher F. we've sacrifice and Pitcher Harris' fence-buster to left for two sacks. Dorman drove a hard line-fly at Heine, who caught Harris flat-footed as he was trying to advance and touched him out for an unassisted double play.

In order to realize just how hard Manager Gooch and his Durhamites were hitting the ball it may be added that, besides their biffing spree in the dangerous eighth, they gave the sixth Manager Murphy several put-outs, some of them very difficult. In the ninth, center-fielder Jesmer, a stocky young left-hander, retired the entire side on three fly balls, one of which by Rescoe backed the fielder to the fence. Trefler and Allison also made some pretty catches; the former have five outs to his credit. One of the outstanding plays of the game was made by Manager Murphy when he ran in along the baseline in the fourth, scooped Rodgers' slow and well placed tap with one hand and, still in the air, tossed to Smith base.

JOHNNY KILBANE
Featherweight Champion of the World

Copyright, 1923, by NEA Service, Inc., in the United States and all foreign countries having copyright laws. Reproduction is prohibited.

A CROWD always is with a champion before the fight. As soon as his opponent starts to hit him, they cry for a knockout of the titleholder. But when the champion steps into the ring, the cheers are all for him.

I learned that especially at Vernon, Cal., on that day back in 1912 when I fought for the first time. I was then a featherweight title. I had been told by so many that he was unbeatable.

It didn't encourage me any more than witnessing an execution would encourage a man sentenced to die. But I sort of gathered my wits and asked myself whether it wasn't an advantage to me to have Attell such a great fighter.

Surely it would be no credit for me to look or be beaten by a dub. And so I climbed in the ring. I didn't mind the half-hearted cheers I received, and the roof-smashing cheers that went to the detriment of my mind not to rush him, but to have him bring the fight to me. When he brought it, I'd have a reception committee consisting of a couple of rights and a few lefts there to greet him.

ATTELL TALKED
I followed this course, and although Attell gave me a severe tongue lashing—he certainly tried to discourage me vocally—he didn't do any particular damage to my husky young body.

So you're the guy who beat Kilbane, he said at one time in a clinch. He was so excited he even thought he was fighting Rivers!

I'd answer with a simple: "Yes." Or I'd even add a "Yes, sir!" That made him so mad he dropped his hands once, and asked me why I didn't come in. I was polite, but firm, in replying that the honors were all his. And I wound up that day by getting the decision and with it the championship, which I have kept ever since.

When the referee lifted my arm and proclaimed me champion, the crowd was all for me.

I don't seem to realize it. It was all so new. I was so excited over it. I've never realized I was the champ. My life's habits have not changed a bit.

After the fight the talk of the town was Kilbane. Those who had seen him wanted to know where he was. Why didn't he come around and show himself?

THE REASON WHY
The reason he didn't, I don't mind in time to nail the batsman-runner. First Baseman Smith, regarded by many as the ace of the season, bat, in my opinion, luck. Rescoe apparently being his "fix" all the way. In the third he drove a hard grounder just within the bag and his fellow first-sacker scooped it for an out. He snatched again in the eighth on a high for terrific line, apparently too high for the batsman, but he leaped into the air and the ball stuck in his mitt. Murphy, Jesmer, Allison and Harris boosted their batting averages a bit on the day's work, while Heckle and Dorman hit .333 for the day and Trefler laid down a nifty bunt. Heckle's error was an unaccountable miff of Saddler's high infield fly. Had not the bases been clear, the fly would have been an automatic out. Altogether the game was a clean, fast, hard-hitting contest.

Dempsey to Get K. O. Kane Says

GREAT FALLS, Mont., May 15.—Tommy Gibbons will knock Champion Jack Dempsey for a "row of sagebrush" when they tangle at Shelby, Montana, July 4, according to Eddie Kane, Gibbons' manager who arrived here today.

"Dempsey never licked anyone and Gibbons has beat them all," Kane said when he fought Greb. Kane said today.

The champion who will meet his manager, Jack Kearns in Great Falls, will arrive here Thursday from Salt Lake City. Dempsey will probably stay at the Y. M. C. A. Building until an outdoor camp is built for him at Giant Springs, three miles from Great Falls. Work on the arena at Shelby is progressing, according to Promoter Loy C. Molinsky, and will be completed before June 15. Eddie Kane left tonight to inspect the arena and later will accompany the challenger on an exhibition tour of Montana cities. Gibbons will start training at Havre in ten days.

Manager Murphy with 487 for the day impressed the crowd and resumed his home rule yesterday.

Eleven Years A Champion

Immediately after Kilbane won the championship, he sought his wife in their hotel 20 miles away. The wife, Mrs. Kilbane, and their nine-month-old baby, Mary, went for a stroll on the beach, away from the crowds, to be alone with his family. This photo was made that day. Inset shows a clinch during the Kilbane-Attell battle.

telling for the first time, was that he was walking up and down the beach with Mrs. Kilbane, pushing their baby carriage. We slipped away from the crowds and stayed back and forth, talking, planning our future.

Because my wife's happiness meant more to me than all the championships put together. Our baby was only about a year old. Our second baby, whom we were to lose, had not been born.

Our future meant everything. The few curious ones who wanted to see the new champ meant nothing. We decided to go back to Cleveland, but to take the journey leisurely, playing a few theatrical engagements on the way. We started back about six weeks later, and all went well until we hit Syracuse, Kansas. There we ran into a snow storm that held us up nearly two days. I'll always remember that storm. It was a terrible one. Finally, on March 17, a Sunday, we reached Cleveland, and what a reception!

Great Year For College Baseball

(Copyright, 1923, by The Bee)
NEW YORK, May 16.—This has been a great year in college baseball. Excepting Princeton few teams have shown great consistency. The Tigers, with their 13 straight victories, to date, have shown themselves to be of little value in a season of fast and loose playing.

But today is no time to "pick the winner." There remain too many games still to be played and there is one great factor in college baseball that may change the face of things as it looks today. That factor is the fickleness of fortune on the college diamond.

There are possibilities at both Harvard and Yale—in the big three—that must be counted on. Each of these teams has shown very fine baseball, and if either could steady down in this last lap of the university season and get back to a batting streak, as each is capable of doing, either could make a very difficult for the orange and black.

With all Princeton's wonderful work this year the inevitable question is "will the Tigers keep it up or crack?" and here enters the big factor which makes college baseball so attractive—its uncertainty of outcome. It is this factor, the whirl of abandon that not infrequently seizes upon a college team and that sends the spectators into frenzies of delight or gloom that makes college baseball such a gamble.

DIAMOND DUST
Eddie Regan is not seriously hurt. He will soon be back on the job.

Pitcher Cudger Harris boosted his batting figures to more than .450 yesterday.

Danville has not had a home game postponed because of rain this season and but one on account of cold weather. That was played off next day.

Manager Gooch has corralled a formidable bunch of left-handed hitters. That bunch of ball-slayers is liable to break up a game at any time.

Umpire Osborne, in the judgment of many cool fans, was off on calling balls and strikes yesterday, but both sides suffered alike, and there was little kicking.

Heine at short for the Bulls looks like a flash. He waited and walked once, stole a base, laid down a pretty sacrifice and began the 8th inning rally with his two-bagger. Besides he handled six chances without a bobbie.

The management continues striving to strengthen the team at every opportunity and now has a dangerous bunch of batsmen.

Harris covered the bag on Rodgers' teasing roller along first-base line, Smith handling the ball. The toss to Harris as he dashed to the bag was faultless, but in his running his own high left hand knocked the ball. We would not have to be scored as an error, although a fine try.

The Tobaccoconist has made a good start for the season. If he can take one game in Durham and one of the two here with High Point, they will about top the heap. But the season is young yet.

With one out and Allison on first in the third inning he managed to steal, but Kearney's clean snap caught him easily. It looked like an unwise play, with but one out.

Jesmer was easily thrown out by Kearney in the fifth when he tried to steal, but two men were out at the time.

Danville will accompany the Goochmen back to Builtown for a double game in Durham today and tomorrow. On Friday the Murphys come home to meet Herndon's Pointers in their second fracas here this season.

KINGS AND PRESIDENT PLANT THE TREES THIS GIRL GROWS

(Special to The Bee)

AMAWALK, N. Y., May 16.—A young woman, living near New York City, is the country's champion tree grower.

She is Miss Evelyn W. Smith, manager of the Amawalk Nursery, largest nursery in the country producing exclusively evergreen and deciduous trees.

"Every day somewhere in the United States," Miss Smith, "a tree is planted from my nursery, and I can't help feeling that each tree perpetuates the memory of my father."

He was Major Orlando J. Smith, publisher. When he died 15 years ago, he left his 250-acre estate to Evelyn and her sister Dorothy. Two courses were open to them: either to sell the estate, or sell the trees as a business and keep the estate.

They decided to try their hand at the business. The older girl soon dropped out. She decided she would prefer raising a family. But the younger kept to the trees. She increased their number from 20,000 to 250,000.

"A tree," she says, "is a real friend. And it is always there when you want it." It is as sympathetic as a human being, as kindly as a dog, and as quiet as a cat. It demands but little care, and in return gives a sheltering comfort. It is a surprise to me that more women have not taken to the raising of trees as not only a pleasant, but profitable pastime."

Within the past several years, international figures who create world-wide news have planted trees at public and private ceremonies, including President and Mrs. Harding, Prince of Wales, General Pershing, Queen Elizabeth and King Albert of Belgium and others, each time the specimen trees have come from the under the guise of these initials.

PHYSICALLY PERFECT

Miss Marjorie Barker, 18, of Hopkinsville, is Kentucky's most physically perfect woman. At least she was awarded that distinction at the recent Health Exposition at Louisville. Miss Barker posed at the "Godness of Health."

TOMMY ABBOTT NOW RECEIVING FOR RICHMOND

Tommy Abbott, who managed the Tobaccoists last year and handled the receiving end, after having been released by Rocky Mount has been signed up by the Richmond club, with whom he formerly cavorted. Tommy travelled during the present season. He started out with Birmingham, but was unable to go the full. He went from the Southern League to Rocky Mount, where, evidently, he could not hold up his end. Yet when he caught for Richmond in 1921, the world and all that was in it was his, or that was what the Richmond fans thought of him. So it is very probable that he will be a royal welcome when he returns to his former love.

All of which calls to mind that catchers can quickly fall from the good graces of the fans, who constitute a truly Roman mob when its members gather together in the baseball coliseum. One or two fizzes are enough for the fans; they are off of that man for life—until he makes one or two unusual plays, whereupon they are all for him. The fans are fickle, but could baseball survive without them?

CAPTAIN GUIGON DIES

(By The Associated Press)

RICHMOND, Va., May 15.—Captain Alexander P. Guigon, general attorney for the Virginia Railway and Power Company and for many years a prominent figure in Virginia legal circles died at his home here tonight.

With Twombly, Harris, Gibson and Caviness the Tobaccoists have a quartet of boxmen who will win a majority of games, with support and such batting behind them as the team is able to give.

Sure is strong!

The Standard for Good Lye

For twenty years Red Devil Lye has been the standard for good lye. Lye must do the hard, rough work about the place. The concentrated strength of Red Devil assures quick results when there's real cleaning and work to be done.

Ask your grocer for the can with the smiling Red Devil on the label. You can depend upon every can having the same uniform strength. Red Devil is convenient to use, it is economical, it sure is strong—it is the standard for good lye.

The family weighs anchor

TODAY we don't wait on the porch for breezes to seek us out. Instead, the whole family sets out to take all the fresh air it needs. We make our own breezes. One invention has brought this wholesome change into the life of town and country—the internal combustion engine, driven by gasoline.

A great new force—a great new influence. Highway transport is now reported to have overtaken railroad transport in capital investment; the last decade alone saw sixteen billions of new capital go into highways and motor vehicles. As the pioneer in motor fuels, the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) feels in no small degree responsible for this development. No place is too remote for an "S. O." pump. Ask for "Standard" Motor Gasoline—by name.

MARKET RIG WAS
WORK OF CRANK

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, May 15.—Wall Street decided late today that an apparent attempt to "rig the market" this morning by the sending in of fake buying orders had been the work of a crank.

Only a few of the buying orders were received, it was said after the close of business and these orders for the purchase of bonds had been telephoned in such a way that detection of the fraud was made immediately. The New York Stock Exchange took no action concerning today's stir.

caused an explosion which wrecked four buildings at the Hercules Powder plant at Pleasant Prairie, west of Kenosha today. Fortunately no workmen were near when the explosion occurred. The total loss will be more than $50,000. 1,500 pounds of powder were blown up in the blast.
In the village, residents were warned to keep within their houses until all danger was past.

AMERICAN TREE SEEDS ARE TO RECLAIM FRENCH FORESTS

BAGS OF THE AMERICAN TREE SEED ASSOCIATION'S SHIPMENT OF TREE SEEDS.

(Special to The Bee.)

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Trees—millions of them—will rise in France in the future, as living symbols of a unity of thought and sympathy between that country and the United States.

They are being sent by Charles
Pack, president of the American Tree Seed Association, in the form of seeds and are intended as a "standing army of friendship" to reforest the battle areas made desolate by shells.

Wh- are trees selected to cement
the friendship between the nations?
Those who know the French can answer easily. And doughboy or marrine could explain.

Trees to the French are a passion.
A love for them is imbedded in their souls through generations. And if you would delve into the very thoughts of this highly strung, sensitive people, you would find that no little part of the bitter enmity now existing between France and Germany is due to the destruction of the beloved French forests.

When gathering fuel became necessary in the A. E. F., French buddies of the doughboy could not see how the Americans could destroy the tree so ruthlessly. Each swing of the axe hurt like the thrust of a knife.

This, then, is the reason tree seeds which will develop into Colorado fir, Sitka spruce, honey locust, cypress and Monterey pine—are going "over there." They will take the place of those destroyed in the war. They will be treasured by America's former ally as nothing could be.

The first tree will be planted on May 28 "Somewhere in France." On that day, six years ago, General John J. Pershing and his staff reached foreign soil. And over there and over here, celebrations will be held to commemorate.

CLEVELAND POLICEMAN SLAIN

John L. Whitfield (right) is being sought in connection with the mysterious slaying of Patrolman Dennis Griffin (left), member of the Cleveland police force. The authorities wish to question him with the hope he may be able to throw light on the mystery. He was last seen with the dead officer, who had arrested him and was taking him to the station.

The officer's nude body was found in a shallow grave about 21 miles southeast of Cleveland near Chagrin Falls, 300 feet off an almost abandoned road, near the spot where charred remnants of his clothing were discovered.

COUNTY JUDGE TO BE REMOVED

HERE IS PREMIER MUSSOLINI;
INTERVIEW TELLS OF SUCCESS

MUSSOLINI'S EYES—THEY DOMINATE ALL OF ITALY.

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS.

(Special to The See.)

ROME, May 16.—Interviewing the man who hypnotized forty million people would seem a difficult job. It wasn't. Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy is the easiest man to interview—once you get to him—in Europe.

It is easy because he answers questions. Most Latins—most Europeans—beat the devil about the bush. Mussolini comes right back at you. "Eh, ben!" he exclaimed, drilling me with his enormous hypnotic eyes as we sat facing each other across his desk in Chigi Palace—the Italian foreign office. His tone said as plainly as had he used the word.

"Shoot!"

"The world is full of trouble," I said as an opener. "What is Italy's?"

"Don't!" Mussolini exploded, the word which indicated he was about to unlimber coming across the desk at me like a cannon ball. "Six months ago Italy's chief trouble was that she needed order. Now she has it."

His words came in jerks, about six at a time, like bursts from a machine gun.

Finances Problem.

"Today," he went on in perfect French, each word bell-clear despite the fact he is the son of a blacksmith, a "self-made" man, and has taught himself pretty much all he knows. "Today Italy's greatest need is to get her finances in order—to balance her budget. Three years ago there was a deficit of 20,000,000,000 liras. We have cut it to 3,000,000,000. We must cut to zero. Voilà!"

"When will you reach that zero?" I asked.

"That does not depend entirely on Italy. If Europe quits making trouble, soon. If not, I can not say."

"What's the matter with Europe?"

"Mainly two things," Mussolini shot back much like a tennis player volleys back his opponent's ball. "Russia is one. Germany is the other. Russia is just a big hole—a void—in the world. Nothing there but literature—phrases. Germany is a block in the road."

"These two countries may be considered as one obstacle, for they are working together—one supports the other. Europe's economic ill can not be corrected until the void is filled and the block removed from the road. That means reparations must be settled. Germany must pay."

Conferees? No!

"How is this to be brought about—by conference?"

"No. Conferences don't settle anything. All they do at one conference is to agree to have another. The patient is very sick. The doctors confer, but the patient gets no better."

"So, the interested nations must agree one with the other—first two, then three, then four and so on, until a general agreement is reached to the Fascist party which has just resulted in four resignations of cabinet members being handed in to you?"

"What opposition?" snapped the premier as if he did not understand.

"You mean in the Popular party?"

"Over with. Finished."

"Have you no fear of a reaction setting in—a return to the old days and parties as they were before your march on Rome?"

"Old Parties Dead."

"Not the slightest. All the old parties are dead. Their ashes scattered. The rest have been absorbed by us. Tomorrow you will see. The streets of Rome will be full of Fascists. I do not fear a reaction. The people are with me. An other there are 150,000 'Black Shirts'—Fascist soldiers. Those are mine. They belong to me."

For a few minutes we talked of people—European personalities. Lenin was a menace. Chancellor Cuno "was to be reckoned with. He's a business man."

Lloyd George "writes too much."

Then I put the question—the one question I most wanted to ask. This new Italian leader, virtually dictator, who holds Italy in the hollow of his hand, seems to wield some sort of supernatural influence over the 40,000,000 people of his country. His great, wide-open and staring Sven-gal-like eyes gave him the air of a hypnotist.

Force, Faith—Eyes.

"You seem to have some strange hold on the people of Italy," I said. "To what do you attribute your power?"

"I asked the question deliberately. I wanted to see how he would take it."

Mussolini smiled. He had risen and come around to my side of the desk. Now he took a step forward until we stood face to face, very close his piercing eyes stabbing directly into mine.

"That is one of the mysteries," he said, enigmatically.

"Personal magnetism," suggested his chief de cabinet, smiling also.

"Chief," said Mussolini, "I really love force. They love a leader. They love courage and they love usefulness. When there is work to be done and a man of courage does it and without personal gain to himself, people will follow him anywhere."

"Then," I replied, "there isn't such a mystery after all."

"But first," he concluded, ignoring my remark, "you must be as hard on yourself as you are on others. To have discipline you must first discipline yourself. I am very hard on myself."

One thing is certain. Part of Mussolini's power comes from his absolute faith in his own star. He is the most confident man I have ever seen. In his lexicon there is no such word as fail.

Only time can tell whether Europe has another Napoleon or just a most interesting meteor trailing across the sky.

Debs Demands Taft Resign From Bench

NEWARK, May 14.—"The Socialist party proposes to proceed against Chief Justice Taft and if he does not resign, we intend to demand his impeachment."

Eugene V. Debs made this statement at a meeting here today declaring that his party will call on Congress to impeach Mr. Taft because he is receiving $10,000 annuity from the Carnegie Corporation.

Debs continued:

"The excuse that the capitalist papers are giving for Taft's receiving Chief Justice is that Carnegie was his friend. Of course Carnegie was his friend! So is Morgan and all the other capitalists. He had served them faithfully and why shouldn't they be his friends?"

"Think of a pensioner of the steel trust being chief justice of our highest court! They ask me if I have any respect for that court and I say, 'No! Absolutely none!'"

Prolonged applause greeted this remark and the audience showed further enthusiasm when he said that in a year the Socialist ranks would be more powerful numerically and politically than before. The party is being "rebuilt," he said.

Before his address in the auditorium, Debs spoke outside to an overflow crowd.

Miss McCormick Quits Business

CHICAGO, May 14.—Miss Muriel McCormick, eldest daughter of J. Edgar McCormick, who caused considerable excitement in exclusive society circles when she opened a woman's smart wear shop, today announced her retirement from business, signs in the windows of the ornate establishment an impending "final clearance sale of gowns and wraps."

Miss McCormick, who is studying diligently to fit herself for grand opera, finds she has no time for other interests. Miss Margaret, who was associated with her, also discovers that her duty at her downtown store prevents her giving proper attention to the partnership branch.

When Miss McCormick opened her shop, it was whispered that she was out of patience with her father, then bent on marrying Ganna Walska and with her mother's interest in Edwin Kerm, the wealthy Swiss architect, and that she had refused to accept any share of the profits of the shop and opened the shop to make her own way in the world.

Chicago Likes Bobbed Hair

CHICAGO, May 14.—Paris may regret its long stringy hair, false hair, hair transformations, puffs and other artifices that swell the coffers of the manufacturers of hair goods, but the dark ages piled upon and around their heads, but it does not go for Chicago.

Chicago has looked over the saucy, bobbed hair crop and likes it. Bobbed hair is here to stay. The State Association of hair dressers, in convention here, openly flouts Paris and its demand. A straw vote was taken on the question of bobbed hair and it won by a tremendous landslide. There may be some slight alterations in the length and style, but as a rule the hair will be bobbed to run around evenly with the tips of the ears.

Convention to Discuss

Lutheran Church Union

(By The Associated Press)

ST. PAUL, May 16.—Ranking as the outstanding Norwegian church convention of the country, the triennial gathering of the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America will be held here June 7 to 15, with the local committee planning for 10,000 visitors.

One of the important issues to come before the convention is the proposed union of the church with three other Lutheran churches—the Lutheran Synod, the Icelandic Lutheran Synod, and the United Danish Lutheran church. Missionaries from China, India, Africa and Madagascar will address the convention.

Snug-Fitting Overblouse

Three important buttons on the side of the band on the overblouse make it fit snugly and help to give the long hipline.

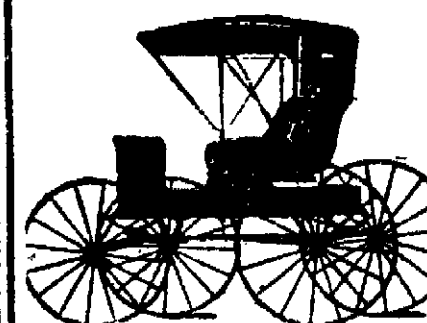

The panel that begins at the neckline on this blouse is loose except for being caught in at the waist, or should he say, hipband.

As the blouse is of the slip-on variety, it has a fastening on the shoulder where the neckline is split to make it more convenient to slip on.
